Continuation Sheet (PTOL-303) 09/825,242

Application No.

Continuation of 2. NOTE: The proposed amendment further limits the examined claims to databases of precharacterized zinc finger proteins. This new limitation would require further consideration and/or search. The prior art of record, Dejarlais et al. might be construed to teach the proposed limitations implicitly. The additional proposed amendments regarding preselected target sites and production of new zinc finger proteins appear to be taught by Dejarlais et al. The applicants state that the claims require target sites in step b that are different than the corresponding nucleic acid sequences in step a. This is not persuasive when the unamended claims are considered because the target sites of step b are not limited to be different than the contents of the database of step a..
